

Hello, we are
Roper Greyell
LLP. We're one of the most well-respected and recognised workplace law practices in Western Canada.
What can we offer you?

Hello, we are Roper Greyell

At RG, we service clients from Tofino, British Columbia to St. John's, Newfoundland to the northern tip of the Northwest Territories and everywhere in between. In order to exceed our client's expectations and deliver solutions to their workplace law challenges, we are continuously striving to build the best team possible.

Our firm is made up of people with diverse backgrounds, experience and perspectives, who enjoy working with clients as much as they do with one another. As leaders in the field, we are committed to developing our people while delivering the highest quality legal representation and strategic advice in all areas of workplace law, including employment, labour and human rights law.

It's Different Here

Spend your summer with RG

As a summer student, you will get hands-on experience and work alongside our dynamic team of workplace lawyers while gaining exposure to our diverse client base. Our clients are at the heart of everything we do and range from small businesses to top-tier employers representing almost every sector of the Canadian economy.

Students participate in our professional development program including seminars, lunch and learns and meetings on a variety of topics that focus on developing legal knowledge (substantive and practical), practice management, and business development skills. The combination of in-depth expertise, industry experience, mentorship and professional development gives each student the opportunity to grow and develop into a first-rate workplace lawyer.

Articling with us gives you a people edge

We provide articling students with the opportunity to engage and develop legal, advocacy, interpersonal, and presentation skills. As an articling student you will conduct research, participate in client meetings and hearing preparation, draft materials for lawyers and clients to review, and attend hearings (arbitrations, tribunals or court) to see your work in action. As your capacity grows, so will the opportunities for independent work.

We strive to practice law in a way that supports excellence in practice and to provide a sustainable work-life balance. We want everyone on our team to have a satisfying professional career and fulfilling personal life.

A Day in the Life

We provide our students with a diverse and hands on work experience in order to showcase the full breadth of a workplace law practice.

Each experience is different but every day RG lawyers deal with workplace discipline and wrongful dismissal, bullying and harassment issues, workplace accidents, human rights and accommodation in the workplace, strikes and picketing, and privacy related matters.

Students are involved in developing and executing strategies while working alongside experienced lawyers who are mentors every step of the way.

Frequently asked questions

Who is an ideal candidate for a position at RG? Our students are not just a list of criteria. They have taken different paths to their legal careers with different life experiences but what they all have in common is a desire to practice in workplace law and learn more about the human side of human resources.

What can I expect from a summer or articling position at RG? Each student experience is different, but every student has an opportunity to gain hands-on experience in the area of workplace law.

Students will practice legal research, develop their writing skills, meet and assist interesting clients, learn about diverse workplaces, shadow some of the top lawyers in workplace law... and maybe even participate in one of RG's (infamous) Bocce Ball Tournaments!

Who can I contact to find out more about the summer program and articling at RG? If you have questions about the student experience at RG, please reach out to Sandra Guarascio, Ryan Copeland, Danny Bernstein, or Maggie Campbell. For general questions about the application process, please contact Shakti Jeyachandran, Director Admin + HR.

It's easy
